Honor Flight: One Last Mission is a heartwarming documentary about four living World War II veterans and a Midwest community coming together to give them the trip of a lifetime. Volunteers race against the clock to fly thousands of WWII veterans to Washington, DC to see the memorial constructed for them in 2004. The trips are called "Honor Flights" and for the veterans, who are in their late 80s and early 90s, it's often the last trip of their lives. The 24-hour journey is full of surprises that deeply move all who are involved. Many veterans say, with the exception of their wedding day and the birth of their children, the trip is the best day of their life.
